UNIT 3. Week 3 - Correlation and Regression

This week's goal was to explore correlation and regression, including measurement techniques and practical applications with examples.

I started by watching a Lecturecast titled "Correlation and Regression," which provided the foundation for understanding these statistical techniques.

I also dedicated time to reading and watching various sources from the recommended reading list, enhancing my understanding of correlation and regression.

The week concluded with an engaging activity - writing a Summary post for Collaborative Discussion 1.
